Q: Connecting to remote MSSQL Database through WebServer I have a database on a remote machine that I need to connect to through PHP web pages. I'm using the following code:

setAttribute(PDO::ATTR_PERSISTENT, true); ?>

That code is called from localhost to get a connection to the remote machine. However, the connection fails. I've been reading that if the server is not local, you should use the IP and port, which I've also tried. Still, the connection fails. A: What connection string are you using? The MSFT driver that you are using uses the fully qualified hostname to connect to the server. That means that you need to provide your local address to connect to it remotely. In 2001, there were 11 million private vehicles registered in the country. That figure has grown to 38.25 million today. Those numbers have led to severe problems on city roads. On any given day, you will see a crowded city road or highway. To handle this traffic, motorway has been put up. All these days, the changing of vehicle policy was carried out, new vehicles became more prevalent and luxury automobiles became a part of our lives. Motorcycles, Scooters, Bikes, Autobuses However, there are many reasons why you can't ignore the question of the cycle which is a quiet alternative. Driving a vehicle is a difficult task for anyone. It is a tricky job to drive without giving a slip to other road users, including pedestrians. So, it is better
