AScanner

AScanner is a lightweight utility for scanning your computer for junk files. When you run it, it will analyze the contents of your hard drive and show you a list of files that it finds. You can then select which files you want to delete, and the program will then proceed to locate and delete them. The program is very easy to use. A simple click will start the scan, and the results will be shown in a window that can be maximized to a full screen. After the scan is done, the results will be shown, in a simple list, with each item showing its size and content type. You can then select the items you want to delete and the program will remove them. The program is fairly straightforward, and you can also export the results to a spreadsheet, for use with other applications.
