I tore my old one apart last week while trying to make a mason jar/wine bottle bottle, so now I'm on the hunt for a new one. Happy Jack Mould's to help with the idea's for what I want to make. I also got chum and Star Wars wood. A nice card and a handmade label. I could use a nice hint on my crafting projects. Thanks fellas

Debate on introducing any new fertilizer composition may be on hold Farmers from the north and central regions and the Sampled District have been protesting against the planned introduction of the fertilizer monosodium glutamate. While the immediate reason for the protests is a demand for the withdrawal of the MSE formulation after testing at 10 different locations of the state, a lead protestor has said that the scheme may be brought to a complete standstill if not withdrawn. "I'm thinking of the possibility of the entire survey being locked down," he said. However, a representative of the MSE corporate office in Bengaluru refuted this, saying that there is no deadline for the submission of samples. "Now that everyone has returned from hosting the rice awareness workshop, they should submit the samples to the AICR [Agricultural Institute of Chennai] and submit them to us. "If we find something wrong, we can take the necessary steps," he said. A MSE spokesman added: "In all probability there may not be a need for further sample testing, and the monosodium glutamate will be considered safe." Protesters also say the approval process of pesticide was flawed and thus criticising the government for this. "We'll go back on the protest if they're able to remove the product," said Kottarakkara Sankaran. The Sankaran did not mince his words when he said the MSE company was responsible for the mess and thus pointing a finger at its marketing executives, which says it will now be testing the product at "over 100 locations". "The company is responsible for killing all the fish and the

A validated and reproducible high-performance liquid chromatographic method was developed for the determination of flumazenil in plasma and whole blood. The analyte and the internal standard, alprazolam, were extracted from alkalinized human plasma or whole blood by protein precipitation with acetonitrile. The subsequent chromatographic analysis was performed on a reversed-phase C18 column (150 mm x 4.6 mm I.D.) with a mobile phase consisting of acetonitrile-50 mM (pH 3.5 adjusted with phosphoric acid)-triethylamine (50:50:0.1, v/v) and the flow rate was 1.2 ml/min. Detection was performed at 277 nm. The retention time of flumazenil was approximately 4.0 min. Calibration curves were linear in the concentration range of 0.1-5.0 microg/ml for plasma and 5.0-100.0 microg/ml for whole blood. The lower limit of quantification of flumazenil in human plasma and whole blood was 0.1 microg/ml. The extraction recoveries of flumazenil from human plasma and whole blood were 75.6-86.2% and 66.2-71.3%, respectively
